Fine artists interested in the beauty of the Lower Eastern Shore of Maryland are invited to exhibit and sell their original two and three dimensional works of art during the Olde Princess Anne Days & Fine Arts Show October 8-10, 2010.

Pieces chosen for the show must be for sale and original works of the participating artists. The application form, non-refundable $25 administrative fee and CD examples of works for consideration must be submitted to the juried panel by August 1, 2010. Jurors have the sole discretion of works selected for the show.

Jurors are: Martha Graham, noted artist, author and designer; Ernest R. Satchell, sculptor and recently retired Chair of Fine Arts at the University of Maryland Eastern Shore (UMES) and Dr. Anke Van Wagenberg, art historian and Director of the Mosely Art Gallery at UMES.

Works will be displayed on 4'x6' panels or pedestals in space designated by the jurors. All works must be in "sale-able" form. Artists must hang/display their works by noon on Friday, October 8, display and remain with their works until 5 pm Saturday, October 9. Works must be totally removed by 6pm Saturday. While the works will be locked overnight Friday, the show sponsors and Princess Anne Voluntary Fire Department or Town of Princess Anne assume no responsibility or liability for the safety, condition or care of any art work.

Twenty percent (20%) of all sales will go to the Somerset County Historical Society and Princess Anne Main Street Program. Sales must be transacted on site through the Somerset County Historical Society.

The Fine Arts Show will be held in the Princess Anne Volunteer Fire Department on Somerset Avenue (Main Street) in the heart of the Princess Anne's Historic district. The event will kick off Friday night, October 8 with a complimentary cocktail reception for artists, collectors and supporters of Olde Princess Anne Days.
